From the desk of ILA President

Dear Office Bearers and Members of ILA,

At the outset, I wish all of you a very Happy Diwali. May this festival of lights bring health, happiness and prosperity to you and your family. I am happy to inform you that the work of the development of ILA Portal has been completed and is being taken well by the Library Professionals in the country. Some important features of the portal which need to be highlighted by every one of us are as follows:

- 1) Online registration of ILA membership through 'PayUmoney' for librarians in India and 'PayPal' for librarians in foreign countries.
- 2) The Database of ILA members with search facility has also been developed.
- 3) The Edit Profile Module will enable the ILA members to update their profiles.
- 4) The Minutes of meetings of ILA's General Body, Council and Executive are also available in full text.
- 5) The ILA Newsletter is now coming out regularly, while the back issues are also made available for reference in the Newsletter database.
- 6) The Journal of Indian Library Association (JILA) now into 52nd volume has undergone complete metamorphosis with regard to its appearance, editorial board, organization of text and Standardization of bibliographic references. JILA has been made online both for contributors and readers. It can be accessed on the following link:

<http://ilaindia.net/jila/index.php/jila/index>

Only the subscribers as well as the Life Members of ILA have been provided access by providing each of them a user ID and password. Those life members and subscribers who are yet to obtain access to JILA are requested to provide the following information to the Managing Editor as early as possible:

A) For ILA Life members:

Name:

ILA membership Number:

E-mail ID:

Contact No. Office/mobile:

B) For Institutional Subscribers:

Name of the concerned person:

E-mail id:

Contact No. Office/mobile:

Website of the institution:

IP Range (s):

C) For Individual Subscribers:

Name:

E-mail id:

Contact No. Office/mobile:

I hope and pray that the newly developed dynamic website will be able to sort out long pending issues of ILA. The members are requested to look for the advertisements from library software and Book vendors, in order to contribute to the income of ILA. The online registration is already showing an increase in ILA membership.

With regards,

Prof. Shabhat Husain

Online Registration of Members and JILA

ILA starts Online Registration of members and launches a new website for Journal of Indian Library Association (JILA) Adding new quill to its cap, the ILA started the registration of its members through the dynamic interface available in its website. The members can now register themselves through the online interface according to different plans available and the payment can be done through PayUmoney (PayPal for members outside the country) gateway. This is for the first time in the history of ILA that the new members can get their membership through the website and can edit their profiles at anytime and anywhere. Besides, a new separate website (linked with the main ILA Portal) using OJS has been created for the Journal of Indian Library Association (JILA), which was officially launched at the department of Library and Information Science, AMU on 27-10-2016. Now the registered members of ILA can get access to the articles of the journal through the website and also the authors can contribute and get access to their articles through the same platform.

Professional News

National Book Trust (NBT) is getting ready to publish books in small languages and dialects of India

The National Book Trust is getting the presses ready to publish books in small languages and dialects of India to promote their use and protect them. Recently, the trust, an autonomous institution under the Union Human Resource Development Ministry, convened a workshop on the Kokborok language of Tripura, with scholars and illustrators invited to participate. On the basis of the discussions, 10 books in the language will be published.

Kokborok is the language of the Borok tribe of Tripura, which has a population of about 15 lakh. While Kokborok had a script called Koloma, the Roman and Bengali scripts have been used to write it. The books will be published in the Bengali script. "We will publish children's books with stories, pictures and illustrations to make such mother tongues come alive for the children of those communities, as it is these children who will take them forward," said an official not wishing to be named. The NBT will organise a Bodo workshop soon, and this too will be aimed at identifying what books can be published in the language used by the Bodo community in Assam. The Devanagari script has been generally used for writing the language, one of the 22 scheduled languages of India since 1963.

The trust has already brought out eight books in dialects used in the Bastar region of Chhattisgarh in the Devanagari script. It has also brought out books on society, Mahatma Gandhi, children's themes and so on, in Maithili, a scheduled language of India spoken in north Bihar, and Magahi and Bhojpuri, both dialects used in Bihar. It is also likely to publish books in Vajjika and Angika, two other dialects of Bihar. The script for all these books in mother tongues of different parts of Bihar will be Devanagari. The details of the news can be had from: <http://www.thehindu.com/news/national/other-states/in-kokborok-prologue-to-a-new-imprint/article9154871.ece>

Google Translator becomes more accurate

Google recently launched an updated translation tool that utilizes sophisticated artificial intelligence to produce startlingly accurate language translations. While the tool has been used to successfully translate between English and Spanish, French and Chinese in a research setting, it's only available currently to everyday users for Chinese to English translations. The new system, which uses deep machine learning to mimic the functioning of a human brain, is called the Google Neural Machine Translation system, or GNMT. To test the system, Google had human raters evaluate translations on a scale from 0 to 6. Translating from English to Spanish, the new Google tools translation was rated an average of 5.43; human translators earned an average of 5.5.
